A recognized leader in the U.S. construction industry for more than 80 years, Balfour Beatty provides general contracting, construction management at-risk, and design-build services for both public and private clients from coast-to-coast. We offer our clients the resources and reach of a national company while providing local service that meets our client's individual needs and exceeds industry standards.

Balfour Beatty is a proven Construction Manager with more than 120 million sf of CM at Risk Education projects completed in the Southeast totaling $16 billion. This depth of experience is a product of our commitment and proven processes – allowing us to provide valuable best practices and lessons learned to minimize disruptions on your campus and maintain the safest environment possible. We go above and beyond to deliver high-quality projects and embrace the challenge of finding a better way.

We believe that the success of a project is determined early, during the Preconstruction Phase, and our team invests their time and energy up front to ensure the success of each and every project. We assist our College and University clients in determining the best strategy for minimizing the budget and maximizing the value of their renovation, modification, or new construction projects – regardless of size. They help to guide the process and provide accurate budgets, offer insights and solutions, leverage innovative practices and technologies that add lasting value, all while drawing upon past experience to ensure an expedited schedule.

We take pride in creating inspiring environments for our educational clients and giving them the confidence that their project will be delivered on time, on budget, and with the lasting quality to be proud of for many years to come.
