“Creative Research Solutions really took the time to understand both our goals and the realities we would face in trying to achieve them. My previous experience with external evaluators had been a real struggle with an unwillingness on their part to make things work for the people involved in the program being evaluated and within a specified budget. In contrast, Dr. Tatum and his team have prioritized the people involved, set out a reasonable and achievable plan and taken enormous pressure off of me as a project director. They also embrace that fact that “things change” and have provided the kind of flexibility that my projects have required.”

—Dr. Lisa Dierker, Director of Pilot Programs, Wesleyan University
